Funding UNHCR's prog

Introduction

UNHCR's structural reform process has begun to show results as additional resources are being expended in field operations. The positive resource mobilization trends from 2007 have been sustained and 2008 was a rewarding year for the Office in terms of fund raising. The year started with a slightly higher budget approved by the Executive Committee (USD 1,096.1 million), but ended up with higher requirements than ever before (USD 1,850.9 million, of which USD 1,174.2 million under the Annual Programme Budget and USD 676.7 million under the Supplementary Programme Budgets). This was mostly explained by increased engagement and budgets in a greater number of supplementary programmes. The Office increased its involvement in the Iraq Situation and Sudan in 2008 and responded successfully to these challenges with the help of its donors. For the second year in a row, UNHCR surpassed its highest-ever contribution mark by USD 330 million compared to 2007. In 2008, the Office was able to implement USD 255.5 million more in activities compared to the previous year. Despite the onset of the global financial crisis in the last quarter of 2008, UNHCR ended the year with a healthy balance.

In October 2007, the Executive Committee approved programmed activities under the 2008 Annual Programme Budget of USD 1,096.1 million, including the Operational Reserve, the

• Inter-agency planning

UNHCR participates in all inter-agency appeals where humanitarian needs go beyond the capacity of any single agency. The Office usually does not take part in appeals addressing natural disasters.

UN agencies and other members of the Inter-Agency Standing Committee are working closely together to respond to emergencies. The UN Humanitarian Coordinator leads the process of developing common humanitarian action plans at the country level for a country or region affected by a crisis. This process specifies the roles of each participating agency and usually leads to the issuing of a consolidated appeal, which sets out the overall approach to address the most urgent needs.

Consolidated Appeals Process and Flash Appeals

In 2008, UNHCR participated in 20 out of the total of 36 Consolidated, Flash or other types of appeals. The table below shows an overview of the 2008 inter-agency appeals in which UNHCR participated.

"New or additional activities - mandated-related" (NAM) Reserve, the UN Regular Budget and the Junior Professional Officer (JPO) scheme. The significant decline in the relative value of the US dollar to most other currencies during the first part of the year resulted in a need to adjust the budget rates for non-US dollar currencies in line with programme objectives and priorities. The 42nd meeting of the Standing Committee in June 2008 approved a proposal to reconstitute the Operational Reserve at the full 10 per cent of programmed activities. Based on revised projections, the IPO Fund was also adjusted upwards from USD 10 million to USD 11.1 million, thereby bringing the total requirements under the Annual Programme Budget to USD 1,174.2 million. Since the October 2007 Executive Committee approval of the Annual Programme Budget at which time five supplementary programmes to the total value of USD 95 million were known, an additional 22 supplementary programmes were established bringing the total budget for all supplementary programmes to USD 676.7 million. The total requirements for all budgeted activities in 2008 were thus USD 1,850.9 million, which was significantly higher than in the previous year. Table 1 at the end of this chapter provides a breakdown of requirements and expenditure in 2008 by subregion. The final 2008 Annual Programme Budget, including the UN Regular budget, JPOs and the Reserves, was thus USD 103.7 million higher than in the previous year.

Out of the 27 supplementary programmes, 11 included components for IDPs. The financial requirements for all supplementary programmes increased by 73.5 per cent compared to the previous year. This is mostly related to UNHCR's continued engagement in the Iraq situation. Apart from the latter situation, which accounted for 40 per cent of the total supplementary programmes, other main supplementary programmes were for the new Caucasus crisis, return and reintegration of Sudanese refugees, Darfur, the Somalia situation and the overall IDP programmes.

Table 2 at the end of this chapter provides financial information for all supplementary programmes in 2008.

Income

In 2008, UNHCR received voluntary contributions amounting to USD 1,598.1 million, which is USD 330.1 million or 26 per cent more than in the previous year. The large increase is partly explained by the positive donor response to the increased requirements and partly to the favourable US dollar exchange rate in the first quarter of the financial year, as more than 50 per cent of contributions were denominated in currencies other than the US dollar. Chart 1 shows how contributions to UNHCR have evolved since 1991. However, it shows a completely different evolution of contributions when inflation is taken into account. The increase of contributions under the Annual Programme Budget, excluding JPOs, was 116 million or 12.5 per cent. Table 3 at the end of the chapter provides a breakdown of all contributions in 2008 by donor.

CHARTI Contributions by type of budget in nominal and real terms (USD millions) | 1991 - 2008

NOTE:
Contributions for JPOs were recorded under Special Programmes until 2000.
Contributions in real terms have been adjusted with the United States consumer price index, using 1991 as the base year.

The Office noted a continuous trend of increased support from all major donor countries, as well as the addition of new donors and additional sources of funding. Contributions through the Central Emergency Response Fund (CERF) mechanism, increased from USD 43.2 million in 2007 to USD 45.7 million in 2008. There has been a positive trend in expanding the donor base: Iraq contributed USD 8 million and Kuwait USD 2 million. Contributions from private donors increased by USD 13.7 million. Traditional major donors have maintained their contributions in their national currencies, while some have significantly increased their contribution. Sixteen governmental donors and the European Commission each contributed more than USD 20 million, compared to 15 donors in 2007 and 13 donors in 2006. The Office hopes to see a further increase in this number in 2009.

The need to broaden its funding base continued to be a key objective for the Office. UNHCR engaged with emerging donors, particularly in the Middle East, Europe and Asia. These efforts have begun to bring some results, but more work is required. Chart 2 shows a trend towards a broader funding base by comparing the main donors' relative share of the total contributions in the past ten years. The relative share of the ten largest donors has decreased from almost 90 to 75 per cent. However, the relative share of contributions by the three largest donors has increased slightly from 43 to 47 per cent.

The United States remained UNHCR's largest donor in 2008, followed by the European Commission, Japan and Sweden. UNHCR's ten largest governmental donors and their share of the total contributions are shown in Chart 3. Luxembourg was again the top donor in contributions per capita and Sweden remained the top donor with regard to a share of a country's gross domestic product. Donor rankings and detailed donor profiles for all major governmental, intergovernmental and UN sources are provided in the Donor profiles annex.

In 2008, contributions towards the Annual Programme Budget, including the Operational and the NAM Reserves, increased from USD 924 million to USD 1,037 million (an increase of 12.2 per cent). The Annual Programme Budget, excluding the UN Regular Budget and JPOs, was 92 per cent funded from voluntary contributions compared to 90 per cent in the previous year. In 2006 and 2005, voluntary contributions accounted for 78 and 84 per cent of the annual programme requirements respectively. This stable and consistent funding level demonstrates sustained commitment of traditional donors and increased trust and interest in UNHCR's programmes by emerging donors.

Voluntary contributions for supplementary programmes amounted to USD 543.8 million compared to USD 332.8 million in the previous year. Total available funds for supplementary programmes, including the balance at the beginning of the year, reached USD 586.5 million. This represents an average funding level of 86.7 per cent against the total Supplementary Programme Budgets. Healthy funding levels for most IDP operations continued to indicate donor support for UNHCR's role in situations of internal displacement. Donors also showed strong commitment to UNHCR's major supplementary programmes in Iraq and Sudan, while more limited interest in the global IDP cluster budget (63 per cent) and the avian and human influenza appeal (59 per cent).

Transfers from the Operational Reserve amounted to USD 155.7 million. Allocations from the Reserve were mostly transferred towards emergency operations, particularly in Chad and Sri Lanka; voluntary repatriation to Afghanistan; and activities related to health, nutrition and sexual and gender-based violence around the world. Donors also demonstrated their interest in the NAM Reserve, used to fund mandate-related activities outside of the annual budget approved by the Executive Committee. Transfers from this Reserve amounted to USD 63.5 million. Resettlement activities, prevention and response to HIV and AIDS, and various other protection-related activities received most transfers under the NAM category. Tables 4 and 5 at the end of the chapter provide detailed breakdowns of transfers from both Reserves. Contributions against the Operational Reserve are shown in Table 6.

Since 1974, the Junior Professional Officer (JPO) scheme has been a key element in UNHCR's operations. Thanks to generous contributions by donor governments, a significant number of young professionals have provided important input in UNHCR's operations worldwide. At the end of the year, 104 JPOs were employed by UNHCR around the world. The majority of them were based in Africa (41), followed by Headquarters (26) and Asia (16). Table 7 at the end of this chapter shows contributions for the JPO scheme in 2008. Table 8 shows newly recruited JPOs by donor over the past ten years.

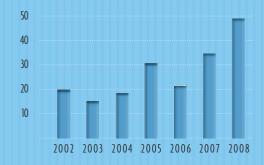

UNHCR also received a variety of in-kind contributions, ranging from non-food items and transportation services to deployments of technical experts and office premises provided by governments. The monetary value of these donations was recorded as regular contributions to UNHCR if the donations were made against budgeted activities. On a case-by-case basis, the Office also accepted goods and services that were complementary to its budgeted activities. These were recorded as extra-budgetary in-kind contributions and their monetary value does not form part of the overall contributions to the Office. In 2008, extra-budgetary in-kind contributions were estimated at USD 10.9 million and are listed in Table 9 at the end of the chapter.

In 2008, the United Nations Regular Budget allocation amounted to USD 33.9 million compared Headquarters.

European Commission 8% Fundraising from the private sector is growing rapidly with income increasing by 55 per cent from 2006 to 2008, to reach nearly USD 50 million. This is driven by a strategy of seeking regular support from large numbers of individuals around the world, as well as gaining the support of companies and foundations in long-term strategic partnerships. A focus on return on investment and long-term sustainable income is ensuring that the fundraising programme is both delivering increasing levels of net income towards budgeted activities, as well as ensuring future revenue streams. Around 60 per cent of private funds raised comes from individuals.

The recruitment of increasing numbers of monthly individual donors is at the heart of the private sector fundraising strategy. The UNHCR on-the-street advocacy programme called 'face to face' involves teams of fundraisers in cities around the world bringing refugee issues directly to the public and asking them for a regular monthly donation. Regular monthly donors usually give for more than five years and provide unearmarked funds. Following the success of programmes in Australia, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Spain and Thailand; UNHCR plans to extend the programme to additional countries in 2009.

UNHCR continued to advocate for flexible and timely funding throughout the year. Unrestricted and broadly earmarked contributions are of major importance to the Office. They enable it to allocate funds where they are needed most. Such contributions are vital for those programmes that do not receive sufficient funding through earmarked contributions. In 2008 for example, UNHCR's country operations in Georgia, the Islamic Republic of Iran, Rwanda, the Republic of the Congo and Serbia received approximately 70 per cent funding from broadly earmarked and unrestricted contributions. Similarly, country operations in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Ethiopia, Kenya and Pakistan received more than 50 per cent of their income from broadly earmarked and unrestricted contributions. Chart 6 shows how the ratio between unrestricted, broadly earmarked and tightly earmarked contributions has evolved since 2001. It shows that the share of tightly earmarked contributions remained high at 53 per cent of all contributions.

In 2008 unrestricted contributions or those earmarked at the subregional or regional levels, as shown in Chart 7, totalled 47 per cent of income, which is slightly lower than in 2007. UNHCR received USD 307.7 million in unrestricted contributions, which is 45.4 million more than in 2007. The Netherlands was again the largest provider of unrestricted contributions, followed by Norway and the United Kingdom. These three donors provided almost 45 per cent of the total unrestricted contributions to UNHCR. Table 10 at the end of the chapter gives a breakdown of all unrestricted contributions by donor. Similarly, the United States and Sweden provided almost 82 per cent of all broadly earmarked contributions to the Office.

Timely and predictable contributions are also of utmost importance to UNHCR.

Contributions given before the start of the year enabled the Office to implement its programmes without interruption and allowed the smooth planning of operations. For 2008, the Office received USD 492.9 million before the year started, compared to USD 394 million for 2007, thanks to positive results at the pledging conference.

Chart 8 illustrates this positive trend.

Other income

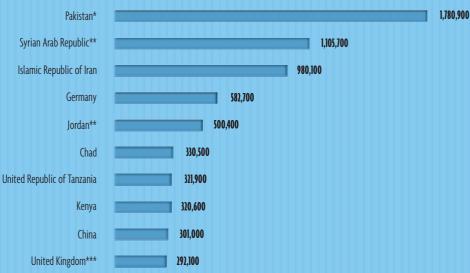

UNHCR started the year with a balance of USD 117.9 million, including USD 40 million in unrestricted funds. The carry-over included USD 67.9 million under the Annual Programme Budget, USD 42.8 million under the Supplementary Programme Budget, and USD 7.2 million under the JPO scheme.

In 2008, currency exchange adjustments resulted in a net gain of USD 4.3 million, down from USD 6.1 million in 2007. In 2008, UNHCR earned interest income of USD 6.3 million, compared to 10.7 million in 2007.

Contributions of host countries

Hosting displaced people is a huge responsibility for many countries, especially for those that have few financial resources. Chart 9 shows that Pakistan remained the largest refugee-hosting country in 2008, followed by the Syrian Arab Republic and the Islamic Republic of Iran. Pakistan and the Islamic Republic of Iran hosted mostly Afghan refugees, whereas Iraqis were the main refugee Individuals in all categories have been issued a Proof of Registration Card by the Government of Pakistan. Following the completion of the registration exercise in 2007, those living outside refugee villages are now in the 'refugee-like' category. They do not receive direct UNHCR material assistance but they benefit from advocacy and reintegration support upon return.

population in the Syrian Arab Republic. The impact of refugees may be expressed by comparing the number of refugees with the local population size or GDP per capita of the host country. Chart 10 shows that Jordan and the Syrian Arab Republic hosted by far the largest number of refugees in relation to their population size, followed by Montenegro. Similarly, Chart II shows that Pakistan, the Democratic Republic of the Congo and the United Republic of Tanzania had the largest number of refugees in relation to a country's GDP per capita, indicating a burden on local economies.

| Management of funds |

In 2007, UNHCR reversed the trend of underfunding for its programmes. Chart 12 shows that although funding for the annual programme in 2008 met requirements, there was a shortfall of USD 96 million against the total budget, including supplementary programmes.

Although UNHCR's expenditure, denominated in US dollars, has increased significantly since 2006, the increase is far less if the inflation rate is taken into consideration, which is shown in Chart 13.

CHARTIS Expenditure in real and nominal terms

 $Note: Expenditure\ in\ real\ terms\ has\ been\ adjusted\ with\ the\ United\ States\ consumer\ price\ index, using\ 1991\ as\ the\ base\ year.$

Total programme expenditure during the year amounted to USD 1,5975 million, including USD 1,093.5 million under the annual programme, USD 493 million under supplementary programmes and USD 11.1 million under the JPO scheme. UNHCR's operations in Africa accounted for 41 per cent of expenditures, followed by the Middle East and North Africa (17 per cent) and Asia and the Pacific (14 per cent). The share of Headquarters spending decreased from 12 to 10 per cent. A breakdown of expenditures by region since 2001 is shown in Chart 14.

Chart 15 shows an approximate breakdown of operational expenditure by sector in 2008. The largest share was in the domestic needs sector (19 per cent), followed by transport and logistics (15 per cent), operational support to agencies (14 per cent) and legal assistance (13 per cent). It is important to note that 26 per cent of operational costs had not been reported by implementing partners at the time of closure of the 2008 accounts and are therefore not reflected in the chart.

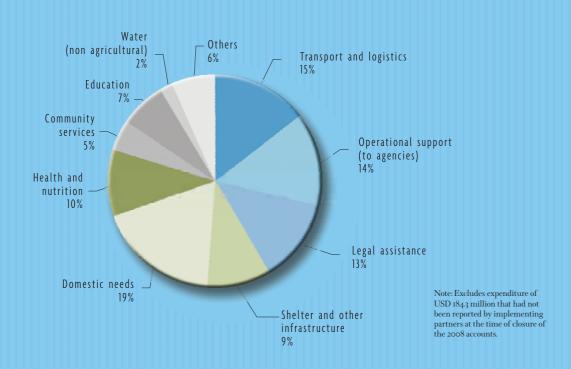

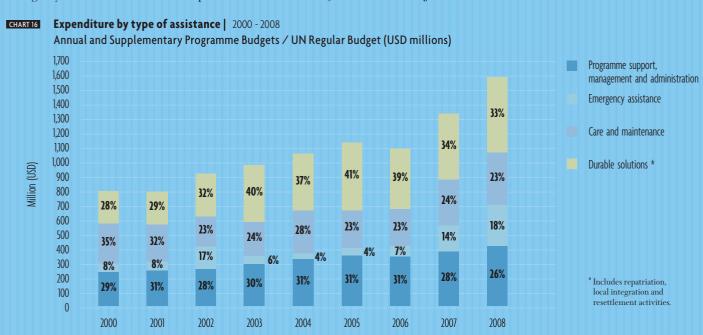

Chart 16 shows a breakdown of expenditure by type of assistance. The largest expenditures were incurred against durable solutions (33 per cent), followed by programme support, management and administration (26 per cent) and care and maintenance (23 per cent). The share of emergency assistance rose in 2008 to 18 per cent.

UNHCR was able to end the year in a favourable financial position with an unspent balance of USD 76.3 million under the Annual Programme Budget, compared to USD 62.1 million in 2007. Another USD 72.6 million was carried over under supplementary programmes and USD 8.5 million under the JPO scheme.

Note: Due to the high volatility of currency exchange rates in 2008, the UN was forced to change its official exchange rates several times per month. Furthermore, UNHCR's contribution recording processes were modified in 2008 and the financial systems were not able to reflect the multiple exchange rate changes within a month. In order to ensure compliance with UN accounting standards, a manual adjustment was made to record the correct value of income based on the prevailing UN rate of exchange at the time when pledges were received. This manual adjustment of USD 3,482,356 is not reflected in the contribution tables shown in the 2008 Global Report.
