I. Introduction

1. The global strategic priorities (GSPs) for the 2018-2019 biennium set out areas targeted by UNHCR in order to enhance protection for persons of concern and find solutions to their plight. The GSPs are divided into two categories: (i) operational priorities for field operations; and (ii) support and management priorities for core organizational functions. The operational priorities influence the development and implementation of country-level plans by field operations and are in line with the 2030 Agenda for Sustainable Development. The support and management GSPs, on the other hand, reflect UNHCR's 2017-2021 Strategic Directions, as well as the commitments made at the World Humanitarian Summit, including under the "grand bargain". In line with the Global Compact on Refugees, UNHCR's work will continue to be strengthened through a broad range of humanitarian, development and private sector partnerships.

2. This paper provides an update on the progress made by UNHCR and partners in implementing the 2018-2019 GSPs during the second year of the biennium. The 2019 "Progress report on the global strategic priorities", where more detailed information and analysis on good practices and ongoing initiatives are provided, is accessible on Global Focus, UNHCR's results-based management programme and reporting tool.

II. GSPs in the operations management cycle

3. The GSPs continued to guide UNHCR in developing strategies and prioritizing planned activities within the budget allocation available in 2019. As in previous years, the progress achieved against the operational GSPs in 2019 was the result of collective efforts undertaken by UNHCR, its partners and other stakeholders, including national governments.

4. In 2019, UNHCR operations reviewed which GSPs applied to their specific context, implemented strategies and plans tailored to their situation and made budgetary provisions in their programmes accordingly. In some cases, an unexpected development, such as a sudden influx of refugees or deteriorating conditions for refugees and other persons of concern, caused operations to reprioritize resources to provide life-saving protection and assistance. In some instances, reprioritization resulted in addressing one compelling need over another, due to a limited availability of resources.

5. UNHCR's operations collected and analysed programme implementation information and communicated progress and results through Focus¹, as well as through the organization's integrated refugee health information system. With the support of technical experts based at UNHCR Headquarters in Geneva, operations reviewed the data to determine the progress achieved against UNHCR's global engagements.

III. Overview of progress achieved in 2019 against the 2018-2019 GSPs

A. Operational GSPs

6. UNHCR operations achieved steady progress against most of the GSPs, although some prioritized areas remained a challenge. The aggregated 2019 results for each GSP indicator are set out in annex I, under “engagement”.

7. UNHCR continued to promote accession to the international instruments relating to refugees, internally displaced persons (IDPs) and stateless persons in order to advance a favourable protection environment. At the end of 2019, 149 States were party to the 1951 Convention relating to the Status of Refugees, its 1967 Protocol, or both. The first Global Refugee Forum, which took place in December 2019, saw many States commit to addressing refugee protection in a more comprehensive and progressive manner. Several States pledged to reform their legislation to meet international standards. In 2019, UNHCR’s engagement was predominantly focused on strengthening registration activities for asylum-seekers, legal aid services, accommodation and advocacy to promote freedom of movement.

8. UNHCR reinforced efforts aimed at addressing internal displacement, including by supporting national legislative and policy developments in Ethiopia, Mali, the Philippines, Somalia and the Syrian Arab Republic. In line with the African Union’s \(AU\) theme relating to refugees, returnees and displaced persons, UNHCR worked closely with the AU to promote the ratification, domestication and implementation of the Convention for the Protection and Assistance of Internally Displaced Persons in Africa (Kampala Convention), commemorating its tenth anniversary.

9. Angola acceded to the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons and the 1961 Convention on the Reduction of Statelessness, while Colombia and Malta acceded to the 1954 Convention. This brought the number of States parties to the 1954 Convention and the 1961 Convention to 94 and 75 States respectively. Furthermore, Kyrgyzstan became the first country to end statelessness by granting nationality to the last 50 known stateless persons on its territory. Since the #IBelong Campaign to End Statelessness was launched in 2014, Kyrgyzstan has resolved a total of 13,700 cases of statelessness. To mark the mid-point of the #IBelong Campaign and highlight key achievements, a high-level segment on statelessness was organized in the context of the seventieth session of the Executive Committee of the High Commissioner’s Programme in October 2019. Among the 250 pledges made by States, 50 were aimed at strengthening access to birth registration to prevent statelessness.

10. In the area of fair protection processes and documentation, UNHCR maintained high levels of individual registration across its operations. By the end of the year, over 8.8 million refugees were registered in UNHCR’s digital population registration and identity management ecosystem (PRIMES). UNHCR continued to strengthen its identity management capacity and achieved a 38 per cent expansion in coverage compared with the previous year. ProGres v4 (UNHCR’s web-based registration and case management database) was deployed to an additional 28 operations, bringing the overall number of countries using the tool to 73. A core component of PRIMES, UNHCR’s biometric and identity management system (BIMS) was rolled out to an additional nine countries, bringing the number of operations using the system to 69.

11. Throughout the year, UNHCR worked with governments and partners to strengthen national protection systems for refugee, IDP and stateless children and youth, alongside host community children. This included support for legal and policy reform; the assessment of policies and services; advocacy and technical support to address gaps; training and capacity-building; and strengthening multisectoral coordination among national actors to respond to the needs of children of concern. In Colombia, UNHCR worked closely with the national child welfare authorities to provide assistance to more than 100,000 arrivals from Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of). At the Global Refugee Forum, UNHCR, the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) and the National Council for Child and Youth Care contributed to the development of pledges aimed at including refugee children in child protection systems and strengthening social welfare workforces worldwide.

12. Access to medical, psychosocial and legal services for survivors of sexual and gender-based violence (SGBV) was improved, and UNHCR continued to promote the inclusivity of services for all survivors, including men and boys, as well as other groups at risk. Additional safe spaces for women and girls were created in Nigeria. This allowed 4,760 individuals to receive psychosocial support and 420 to participate in vocational training. In Bangladesh, UNHCR carried out activities to reduce the risk of SGBV. These included installing 2,500 street lights, distributing 86,700 shelter locks and issuing 85,000 households with liquid petroleum gas canisters to reduce the risks associated with firewood collection. UNHCR supported the implementation of programmes such as "Engaging men through accountable practice", adapting them to numerous contexts and operations.

13. In the area of basic needs and services, 15,200 refugee housing units (RHUs) were deployed to 15 operations, 70 per cent of which were located in Africa. As of end 2019, 219,000 persons of concern, (including some 90,020 IDPs), were living in RHUs across the globe. With regards to water, sanitation and hygiene (WASH), data collected through UNHCR's WASH monitoring system indicated that, on average, 8 additional litres of water per person, per day were made available to refugees in operations which saw their water production improve. In addition, a total of 25 boreholes were upgraded to solar hybrid or full solar pumping, across seven countries.

14. UNHCR launched a new refugee education strategy, with the aim of promoting the inclusion of refugee children and young people in equitable quality education and preparing them for participation in cohesive societies. UNHCR also supported the launch of the Tertiary Refugee Student Network, a global network of refugee students committed to enabling 15 per cent of all refugee students to access higher education by 2030.

15. To support community empowerment and self-reliance, UNHCR continued to invest in the capacities and skills of persons of concern. It expanded support to the MADE51 multi-stakeholder initiative to provide refugee artisans with access to international markets. In partnership with 22 social enterprises located around the world and over 2,600 refugee artisans, UNHCR helped develop refugee-made product lines in 15 countries. These product lines were marketed and showcased at six events across the globe to promote the initiative and the brand. In addition, UNHCR, together with the World Bank Partnership for Economic Inclusion and 13 non-governmental organizations (NGOs) launched the Poverty Alleviation Coalition with the goal of alleviating poverty in 500,000 households across 35 countries over the next five years, by expanding the "graduation approach".²

16. With respect to durable solutions, voluntary repatriation remained a challenge, with around 317,000 refugees returning compared to 593,800 in 2018. This number included UNHCR-facilitated repatriation, as well as spontaneous returns. For returnees, cash assistance proved to be essential, as it provided respite for families seeking other forms of support. UNHCR also advocated the inclusion of returnees in national development plans and other frameworks. Global resettlement needs were estimated at 1.4 million persons of concern in

² The graduation approach aims to benefit refugees and host country communities by providing food security and sustainable livelihoods through innovative and market-based initiatives.

2019. Some 63,730 refugees referred by UNHCR were resettled to 29 countries, marking a slight increase from 2018. This surpassed the target of 60,000 set out in UNHCR's "Three-year strategy \(2019-2021\) on resettlement and complementary pathways". Nevertheless, this figure represents less than five per cent of the 1.4 million refugees estimated to be in need of resettlement.

17. In view of the alignment of the operational GSPs with the sustainable development goals (SDGs), including in the areas of gender equality, peace and justice, food security, health, education and livelihoods, as well as water and sanitation, UNHCR was able to actively engage in discussions on the SDGs at the country level and advocate the inclusion of persons of concern in national plans. In the spirit of the Global Compact on Refugees, UNHCR's programmes were strengthened by broadening partnerships within humanitarian, development and private sector partners.

B. Support and management GSPs

18. In 2019, as part of UNHCR's organizational transformation process, a range of activities were undertaken to better support operations, as well as to ensure effective oversight, in line with the support and management GSPs for the 2018-2019 biennium. Annex II provides a summary overview of the progress achieved against these GSPs.

19. UNHCR and its partners responded to the needs of 16.7 million displaced people worldwide, affected by multiple and simultaneous emergencies. By mobilizing financial, human and material resources and facilitating partnership engagement, UNHCR was able to effectively respond to these emergencies, despite challenging security conditions. In order to respond to the growing needs, UNHCR activated six new emergencies involving eight countries, including four level-3 and four level-2 emergencies. Among these were three refugee and five IDP emergencies. Three of the latter were in response to the damage and displacement caused by Cyclone Idai. UNHCR's response to the 14 emergencies activated in the prior year continued. However, as emergency deployment rates slowed, emergency situations activated in 2018, across 32 countries, were deactivated in 2019. UNHCR provided timely and cost-effective support in responding to new and ongoing emergencies, dispatching $30 million worth of emergency core relief items from seven global stockpiles to 23 countries.

20. The official launch at the Global Refugee Forum of the Asylum Capacity Support Group, a coordination mechanism aimed at developing national asylum capacities and promoting State responsibility in receiving countries, generated momentum in this area. In consultation with States, civil society organizations and other stakeholders, UNHCR developed guidance and practical tools to facilitate the formulation of pledges related to asylum. In the lead-up to the Global Refugee Forum, several States made commendable efforts to streamline their asylum systems, using UNHCR's guidance. In 2019, UNHCR produced and commissioned a number of important country of origin information reports and issued guidance on the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Iraq, Mali, South Sudan and Venezuela (Bolivarian Republic of).

21. The year 2019 marked the end of UNHCR's "Global strategy: beyond detention 2014-2019". Over the past five years, important progress has been made in the 20 focus countries covered by the strategy. This work was underpinned by three goals, namely: ending child detention; ensuring the availability of alternatives to detention; and promoting conditions of detention that meet international standards. The majority of the 20 countries covered by the strategy passed laws or introduced policy reforms limiting or ending the detention of child asylum-seekers and refugees. Such prohibitions are now legally enshrined in Canada, Malta, Mexico and the United Kingdom of Great Britain and Northern Ireland. It is also the practice of Israel, Lithuania and Zambia not to detain children. Bulgaria, Malaysia and Mexico made progress towards providing special protection and assistance to unaccompanied and separated children, including appropriate care arrangements and the introduction of sensitive screening and referral procedures.

22. UNHCR provided approximately $650 million in cash assistance over the year, marking an increase of 13 per cent compared to 2018, and of 50 per cent compared to 2015. Of the cash provided by UNHCR, 95 per cent was unrestricted in use. CashAssist, UNHCR's cash assistance management system, was deployed in 10 countries, and the roll out to another 50 operations is planned for the coming two years. The system provides a transparent platform for UNHCR and partners to send secured payment instructions to financial service providers, ensuring that the cash assistance is fully traceable. UNHCR increasingly leveraged its cash assistance to promote financial inclusion and facilitated refugee access to formal bank and mobile money accounts in countries such as Cameroon, the Democratic Republic of the Congo, Ethiopia, Iraq, Jordan, Kenya, Niger, Rwanda, Uganda and Zambia.

23. UNHCR mobilized $4.217 billion in donor contributions. Private donors contributed $422 million, of which 57 per cent ($242 million) of this sum was un-earmarked and 17 per cent ($71 million) was softly earmarked. Private sector income remained at the same level as the previous year ($423 million) as a result of several factors, including shifts in public interest and the effect of exchange rates. Flexible funding is crucial to UNHCR's ability to quickly respond to crises and to support those operations that do not attract sufficient donor interest. This form of funding amounted to 30 per cent of total income, resulting in a slight decrease, down from 33 per cent, in 2018. Of the total contributions received, $659.5 million (16 per cent) was un-earmarked and $597.2 million (14 per cent) was softly earmarked. UNHCR continued to broaden its donor base through strengthened advocacy and engagement with new donors. The organization also explored the opportunities offered by innovative funding sources in the private sector.
