INFORMATION FOR PERSONS WHO WISH TO SEEK ASYLUM IN THE RUSSIAN FEDERATION

"Everyone has the right to seek and to enjoy in other countries asylum from persecution".

Article 14
Universal Declaration of Human Rights
I. Who is a refugee? Temporary asylum?

According to the Russian legislation and the 1951 UN Convention Relating to the Status of Refugees, a refugee is defined as someone outside of his/her country of origin who is unable to return there because of persecution on account of his race, religion, nationality, membership in a particular social group or political opinion.

If you consider yourself to be a refugee, you should approach the Russian migration authorities to apply for refugee status in the Russian Federation.

If you do not meet the refugee definition but cannot return to your country of origin due to war, generalized violence or for other humanitarian reasons (e.g. serious health issues), you have the right to apply for temporary asylum (TA).

II. Where do I apply for refugee status?

Both refugee status applications and applications for temporary asylum must be submitted to the territorial branch of the Migration Department of Ministry of Interior (MOI) of the Russian Federation at your place of residence. (contact information is provided in Annex 1). If your freedom of movement is restricted and you are unable to visit the MOI Migration Directorate in person, you can submit your asylum application through the detention center administration, or through your legal representative (e.g. a lawyer).

III. Refugee status and TA Asylum application procedure

Your asylum application and application for temporary asylum (TA) must be accepted regardless of your legal status in the Russian Federation or your ability to present identity documents. If you do not have identity documents, you must go through a procedure for establishing your identity. If at the time of your application you cannot demonstrate a legal basis for staying in the RF (visa/migration record/other), you may be subjected to administrative penalty in accordance with Russian law.

If you do not speak Russian, you have the right to a free of charge professional interpreter.

Refugee status (RS)
Once you submit your application, the territorial branch of the MOI is supposed to issue you an Asylum-seekers certificate. Then your fingerprints will be taken and you will be interviewed.

The MOI Migration Directorate of is supposed to review your asylum application within 5 days and decide whether to further consider your claim – this stage is called "consideration on the merits." Following this review, you will be either issues an "Asylum-Seeker Certificate of Consideration on the Merits" or a rejection decision stating that your claim will not be considered further.

Consideration on the merits involves additional interviews to understand the reasons why you left your country and why you are afraid to return, as well as all other circumstances of your case, including any documentary evidence and information about the situation in your country of origin.

"Asylum-Seeker Certificate of Consideration on the Merits" is valid for three months, and within this time period, a decision should be reached on your case. Exceptionally, the processing time may be extended for another 3 months, in which case the asylum-seeker’s certificate will be extended. This certificate also serves as an identity document and proof of your legal stay in Russia.

While your asylum application is being assessed, you are protected against forced return to your country of origin. Any attempt to expel or deport you during this time would be a serious violation of the Russian legislation and the 1951 Convention.

After your claim is reviewed, a decision will be made to either recognize you as a refugee or to reject your application. If you are recognized as a refugee, you will be issued a Refugee Certificate. Refugee status is not time-limited, but you must approach the MOI Migration Department territorial branch every year to re-register.

Temporary Asylum (TA)

You may submit an application for temporary asylum either before or after applying for refugee status. The temporary asylum (TA) process also involves finger prints and an interview. When your TA application is accepted, you are issued a Temporary Asylum-seeker Certificate, valid for three months, or your Asylum-seeker Certificate of Consideration on the Merits is extended, if you had previously applied for refugee status. Both documents serve as evidence of your lawful stay in Russia.

Once your case is reviewed, a decision will be taken to either grant you TA or to reject your application. If you are granted temporary asylum, you will be issued a Temporary Asylum Certificate, which will be your identity document.
TA is granted for 1 (one) year. You have the right to apply for TA extension. The application must be submitted no later than 1 (one) month before the expiration date. If you do not apply within this timeframe, you will lose your status.

To receive a Refugee Certificate or a Temporary Asylum certificate you must take a mandatory medical examination. Recognized refugees and TA holders are protected from forcible return to their home country.

IV. Procedure for appealing refugee status rejection

If you were denied consideration on the merits, or your application for refugee status or TA was rejected, you will be notified about the decision. You also have the right to receive a detailed written explanation of the reasons for rejection, which you can use to appeal to the higher administrative body - the Main Directorate for Migration Affairs of the MOI (GUVM MOI of Russia) - or to the court. The appeal must be submitted within one month of the receipt of the rejection notice.

Asylum-Seeker Certificate of Consideration on the Merits and Temporary Asylum-seeker Certificate may be extended during the period of appeal. To extend these documents, you must present proof that your appeal was submitted. If you miss the deadline for appeal, your presence in Russia will be considered illegal, and you may be fined, detained or deported/expelled.

If at any stage of the appeal process a decision is made in your favour, your case will be returned to the territorial Migration Department of the MOI for reconsideration.

V. Rights of asylum seekers (refugee status and temporary asylum status)

Your rights and obligations are outlined in the Federal Law “On Refugees” and include the right to a professional interpreter and emergency medical assistance. While your Asylum-seeker Certificate of Consideration on Merits (refugee status) is valid, you have the right to obligatory medical insurance (OMS), which entitles you to free medical services in outpatient clinics at your place of residence. To obtain an OMI certificate, you will need to apply to one of the insurance companies working with the obligatory medical insurance system.

Also, if you are in a particularly vulnerable situation while applying for refugee status, you may request to be accommodated in the Temporary Accommodation Center (TAC), under the jurisdiction of the MOI Main Directorate.

All children have the right to public school education regardless of their legal status in Russia.

Your main responsibility is to abide by the laws, rules, and regulations of the Russian Federation. More detailed information is available on the MOI website https://mvd.ru. You may also consult with the MOI Migration Directorate staff at one of the territorial branches, or through their free hotline “102”.

VI. Rights and obligations of recognized refugees (RS) and temporary asylum holders (TA)

Your rights and responsibilities are detailed in the Federal law “On Refugees.” It is important for you to know that you have the right to free medical assistance, at your place of residence. For this, you must go to a medical insurance company and receive a certificate of mandatory medical insurance (OMS).

You also have the right to work without obtaining a work permit.

Upon request, particularly vulnerable individuals may be accommodated in the Temporary Accommodation Center (TAC) at the discretion of MOI Main Directorate.

All children have the right to public school education regardless of their legal status in Russia.

Refugee status holders have the right to apply for RF citizenship one year after the date of recognition. Temporary asylum holders may apply for temporary residence permit, which has a longer validity period.

You must obey Russian laws and have to register with the MOI territorial body at your place of residence and comply with all the conditions of migration registration. Failure to comply with migration regime may lead to administrative sanctions (e.g. fines).

You can receive more detailed information by consulting the territorial branch of the migration department of MOI in person or through their official website.

VII. What to do if you have been stopped or detained by the police

If you are detained or stopped by the police, do not sign any documents unless you understand their content.

Paying a fine on the spot is considered a bribe and may be grounds for criminal charges for both sides!

Ask the police officer to introduce themselves, state their title and show their ID. If possible, write down the name, rank, and the police number of his police precinct. Administrative detention should not exceed 3 hours; however, it may be extended up to 48 hours, if necessary, to check documents, determine identity or verify circumstances of the offense.

You should confirm that the summary of charges contains detailed information about the police precinct, the police officer handling your case and details of the offense, in case you want to appeal.

You have the right to a lawyer and an interpreter. Also, you have the right not to sign the charging document or other procedural documents made in disregard of your requests for an interpreter and a lawyer.

In cases of police abuse or other unlawful actions of law enforcement agents, you should report to the nearest police station or call the hotline 102.

VIII. Role of UNHCR in the Russian Federation

The role of UNHCR (United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees) in the Russian Federation is to assist the government in finding solutions to the situation of asylum seekers, refugees and stateless persons through expert support, training programs and funding a number of projects aimed at assisting persons of concern to UNHCR, in particular, legal counselling and social support to persons with special needs.

UNHCR and partners assist persons who are granted refugee status and temporary asylum to integrate in Russia. UNHCR also helps asylum seekers and refugees to repatriate to their country of origin if they wish to do so, provided that the return will take place in safety and dignity.
Asylum seekers approaching UNHCR and partner organizations are provided with general information on the national asylum procedure. Applicants can get more information and qualified legal assistance on asylum issues in the Russian Federation from UNHCR partners. Especially vulnerable individuals may be offered additional social support.

You should contact UNHCR or partner organizations in the following situations:

- If you have been denied access to the national asylum procedure by the territorial branch of the MOI Migration Department;
- If you have received a negative decision on your refugee or temporary asylum application;
- If you fear being returned to your country of origin before your asylum application is reviewed or before your appeal is decided;
- If you are faced with a difficult living situation or your life is threatened in Russia and you need legal or social counselling or support;
- Having been recognized as a refugee or having obtained temporary asylum, you wish to return to your country of origin;
- If you have been granted refugee status or temporary asylum status and need assistance with obtaining a more permanent legal status in the Russian Federation (temporary residence permit, residence permit or naturalization);
- If you consider yourself to be in a situation of statelessness or find it difficult to determine your citizenship.
