Operational context

At the crossroads of Africa and Europe, Tunisia is exposed to complex movement patterns involving refugees and migrants along the central Mediterranean route. Individuals from Central, West, East, and the Horn of Africa, as well as the Middle East, undertake perilous journeys to reach Tunisia, often encountering significant risks and rights violations throughout their journey.

Among those arriving are particularly vulnerable individuals in need of international protection, including victims of torture, survivors of gender-based violence, individuals with serious medical or psychosocial needs, as well as unaccompanied children. Once in Tunisia, limited access to basic services continues to exacerbate vulnerabilities, particularly for those without family or community support. Worsening economic conditions further compound the situation, increasing the reliance of asylum-seekers and refugees on basic humanitarian assistance to meet their most basic needs.

UNHCR has adapted its response to the evolving context by taking on the direct implementation of certain activities previously carried out by partners, while continuing to rely on partners for the delivery of other key services. This approach has ensured continued access to critical assistance for registered asylum-seekers and refugees at heightened risk, including healthcare, legal services, case management, safe shelter, and multi-purpose cash support.

Operational response

PROTECTION

- UNHCR continued its efforts to renew cards for registered refugees and asylum-seekers with a total of 836 cards successfully renewed in July 2025. In addition, 7 newborns were registered, and their details were added to the registered parents' file.
- UNHCR conducted vulnerability assessments for 55 registered refugees and asylum-seekers to identify the most appropriate interventions and referrals to existing services and assistance.
- As part of the UNHCR and UNICEF collaboration on case management and mental health and psychosocial for children under UNHCR's mandate, 161 children were assisted through best interest procedures during the month.
- UNHCR and its partner provided legal assistance, advice, and consultations to 34 additional refugees and asylum-seekers.

HELPLINE

- In July 2025, UNHCR's helpline service recorded a total of 3,111 communications from 1,412 unique callers, including Sudanese, Somali and Syrians among the top three nationalities. Helpline assistants provided callers with information, counselling, and orientation to specialized services and assistance.

SAFE SHELTER

- In July 2025, UNHCR hosted a total of 414 refugees and asylum-seekers in UNHCR-run five safe shelters, where they benefited from basic services, including case management, counselling, mental health and psychosocial support, and food assistance.
- UNHCR offered protection initiatives and empowerment programs to people living in the safe shelters, providing access to a range of activities such as language courses, sports, movie screenings, and regular hygiene, health, and mental health awareness sessions.
- UNHCR continued to provide rental and utilities support to the Jdariya temporary safe shelter in the governorate of Medenine, which hosted up to 181 refugees and asylum-seekers in July 2025.

HEALTH

- UNHCR and its partner helped vulnerable refugees and asylum-seekers access health services: 166 in-person and remote medical counselling sessions provided, 134 individuals benefited from accompaniment to health facilities, and 90 cases had their consultation costs covered.
- UNHCR delivered psychosocial counseling to 50 individuals.

CASH-BASED INTERVENTIONS

- With the endorsement of the Tunisian government, UNHCR continued to implement cash-based interventions, benefiting 1,011 individuals in July 2025. In total, 615 individuals received multipurpose cash support, 239 received cash-for-food assistance, and 157 unaccompanied children received food vouchers.

SELF-RELIANCE

- As part of a pilot initiative to enhance refugees' and asylum-seekers' prospects for third-country solutions, UNHCR partnered with local training centres and institutions in Tunis to provide vocational training. Since the beginning of the year, 52 individuals have successfully completed their training, while 13 remain enrolled in the program as of July 2025.
- UNHCR and its self-reliance partner continued their efforts to strengthen the resilience of asylum-seekers and refugees. In July, job placements for 8 individuals were secured and approved by the Tunisian authorities.
