Notes

The data are generally provided by governments, based on their own definitions and methods of data collection.

¹ Country or territory of asylum or residence.

² Persons recognized as refugees under the 1951 UN Convention/1967 Protocol, the 1969 OAU Convention, in accordance with the UNHCR Statute, persons granted a complementary form of protection and those granted temporary protection.

³ Persons whose application for asylum or refugee status is pending at any stage of the asylum procedure.

⁴ Refugees who have returned to their place of origin during the calendar year. Source: Country of origin and country of asylum.

⁵ Persons who are displaced within their country and to whom UNHCR extends protection and/or assistance.

⁶ IDPs of concern to UNHCR who have returned to their place of origin during the calendar year.

⁷ Persons who are not considered nationals by any country under the operation of its laws. See Table I.1a for more details on stateless persons.

⁸ Persons of concern to UNHCR not included in the previous columns. Including Involuntarily Relocating Persons (IRPs) in the Russian Federation (193,000), Afghans in a refugee-like-situation in the Russian Federation (100,000; UNHCR estimate), Malians and Sahrawis in Mauritania (29,500), Colombians in the Bolivarian Republic of Venezuela (26,400), rejected Eritrean asylum-seekers in Sudan (37,400), former Filipino refugees in Malaysia (61,300), former refugees from Timor-Leste in Indonesia (16,200), and local residents-at-risk in Serbia and Montenegro (Kosovo, 85,000).

⁹ UNHCR figures for Pakistan only include Afghans living in camps who are assisted by UNHCR. According to a 2005 Government census and subsequent voluntary repatriation during the year, there are an additional 1.9 million Afghans living outside camps, some of whom may be refugees. Those Afghans living outside camps receive no UNHCR assistance expect access to UNHCR-facilitated voluntary repatriation.

¹⁰ Refugees and asylum-seekers refers to end-2003.

* Refugee estimate provided by UNHCR, based on 10 years of refugee arrivals and asylum-seeker recognition.

 Refugee estimate provided by UNHCR, based on five years of refugee arrivals and asylum-seeker recognition.

I.1a Stateless persons¹, 2004

This table excludes stateless refugees and stateless asylum-seekers.

Data is not complete and includes estimates. Countries for which UNHCR has information about stateless persons but no reliable data have been included in the table with an asterisk (*).

Notes

¹ This definition refers mainly to de jure stateless persons but also includes de facto stateless persons as well as persons who have difficulties establishing their nationality.

² The large majority of persons recorded as stateless have permanent residence and enjoy more rights than foreseen in the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons.

³ Ethnic Kazakhs with foreign citizenship who move to Kazakhstan and who may find themselves in a stateless situation for a period of time while applying for Kazakhstan citizenship.

⁴ The Republic of Latvia enacted a Law on Stateless Persons on 17 February 2004, which replaced the Law on the Status of Stateless Persons in the Republic of Latvia of 18 February 1999, and which determines the legal status of persons who are not considered as citizens by the legislation of any State and whose status is not determined by the 25th April 1995 Law (quoted below).

⁵ The Republic of Latvia by the 25th April 1995 Law on the Status of Those Former USSR Citizens who are not Citizens of Latvia or of Any Other State granted a transitional legal status to permanently residing persons (non-citizens) entitling them to a set of rights and obligations beyond the minimum rights prescribed by the 1954 Convention relating to the Status of Stateless Persons, and identical to those attached to the possession of nationality, with the exception of certain limited civil and political rights. Therefore, the exclusion clause provided by Article 1.2.2 (ii) of the 1954 Convention is applicable to the non-citizens of Latvia.

⁶ This figure corresponds to Meskhetians in Krasnodar who are de facto stateless. Additional numbers of former Soviet Union citizens not originating from the Russian Federation who cannot be quantified may also still face risks of statelessness.

⁷ Figures are based on estimates from Amnesty International and Human Rights Watch.

A dash (-) indicates that the value is zero or not available.
⁹ UNHCR figures for Pakistan only include Afghans living in camps who are assisted by UNHCR. According to a 2005 Government census and subsequent voluntary repatriation during the year, there are an additional 1.9 million Afghans living outside camps, some of whom may be refugees. Those Afghans living outside camps receive no UNHCR assistance except access to UNHCR-facilitated voluntary repatriation.
* Figures are based on departure and arrival records.
 Population at the end of the year does not necessarily equal the population at the beginning of the year plus the increases minus the decreases.
 For method of estimation for the refugee population in selected industrialized countries, see Table I.1 or Chapter I.
* Generally, this equals the number of persons recognized as refugees and those allowed to remain for humanitarian reasons. See also Table III.1.

II.2 Refugee populations, new arrivals and durable solutions by origin, 2004

The origin is listed if the total refugee population at the end of the year was 10,000 or more. See footnotes at the end of the table.

II.2 Refugee populations, new arrivals and durable solutions by origin, 2004

The origin is listed if the total refugee population at the end of the year was 10,000 or more. See footnotes at the end of the table.

Notes

A dash (-) indicates that the value is zero or not available.

* Figures are based on departure and arrival records.

 Population at the end of the year does not necessarily equal the population at the beginning of the year plus the increases minus the decreases.

* Generally, this equals the number of persons recognized as refugees and those allowed to remain for humanitarian reasons. See also Table III.1.

* In a few countries the breakdown of the population aged 60 and more is not separately available but is included in the age group 18-59.
 Coverage: The total population of concern in the country for which demographic information is available. In a few cases, the population for which the sex and age breakdown is available is larger than the population of concern to UNHCR.
 Total population of concern in the country. See Table I.1 for a breakdown by category.
